The Red and White Caterpillar

Once upon a time, a little red and white caterpillar named Mr. Goldbug inched along the milkweed leaf, trying to find something succulent to eat. Mr. Goldbug was never bored. Everyday he had a new obstacle to face, or a goal to accomplish. He wanted more than anything to become a butterfly. He felt his legs were too small, his clothes too tight and outdated, his body too compact, his colors too bland. He was ready for change. On September 3, 1997, after a year and a half of constant reconstruction, Mr. Goldbug, at 41 years of age, metamorphosed into a beautiful, flowering butterfly adorned with purples, magentas, yellows, greens, and blues. Though to this day he is still mending his wings, Mr. Goldbug has begun to flourish in his new youth.

Mr. Goldbug, if you haven't realized, represents our school. With a new administration, a new building, library, schedule, food, computers, the 9th graders, and modernized classrooms, each person has benefitted in one way or another. It took time to get used to the metamorphosis of our old school, but just like Mr. Goldbug, ARHS will always be the same on the inside.

Fun in the Summer Sun

Once the bell rings on the last day of school, students flee. Summer days range from fun days at the pool to climbing extravagant sights. Amherst students are always having fun!

Rebecca Lamet, Jamie Howes, Rachel Chouinard, Jessi Bond, Laura Machala, and Molly Waring take time from their "busy" schedules to pose for the camera.

Nadia Kachwaha, Alaine Knipes, Melissa Colbert, and Chiung-Yin Chung relax at summer camp out.

Jacob Holzberg-Pill, Dan Ratner, Nick Lange, Josh Berman, and Ethan Drucker go backpacking on the Appalachian trail.

Sara Shandler and Nyla Rosen enjoy the weather while taking classes at Brown University.

Lilliana Zmed, Jamey Kline, Marli Jo Lombardi, Abby Kahn, Daisy Perkins, Shachar Gillat, Ashley Carlisle, Katharine Pastides, Emily Hyser, Emily Wolff, Katie Heller, Phoebe Stapleton, Dave Bhowmik, Aurora Smaldone, Sarah Pickering, Johannah Shinner feast at Pinocchio's in Amherst for Aurora's 16th birthday.

Adriana Sola basks in the Puerto Rican sun.

Danni Klein and Amber Clarke play in the pool.

Phil Ciccarelli, Puck Fernsten and Dan Stepchew pause for a rare moment of summer thought.

Outside of

Avid sports fans Chris Looze, Russ Jaskalian, Mike Kurtz, Rachel Jenner-Young, and Liz Ellis come out for the game.

Edwin Lee, Amra Dizdarevic, Bunthoeun Yath, and Victoria Marchenko grab lunch at the Montague Book Mill.

Hoang-Oanh Trinh, Yuki Nishinoh, Nan Zhang, and Tashi Chodon check the prices at a New England farmstand.

"It is fun to be out of school on such a nice October day!" think Hoang-Oanh Trinh, Yuki Nishinoh, and Tashi Chodon.

Relaxing in School

Karthik Easwar,
Michaela Morzuch,
and Vafa Ansarifard let the corridors clear before heading to class.

The 2:20 bell brings smiles to the faces of Sara Eaton-Bruce, Conor
Simpson and Kito Sharpe.

Justin Prybylo, Aaron Hamel and Kelly Terr relax before class gets going.

School Daze

With the new addition and all the construction, many students are caught up in a mass of confusion. "Which hallway should I use?" "Which staircase is which?" These are just some of the many questions asked by Amherst Regional High School Students. The number one question asked would have to be, "Why do you have to be a cross country runner to get to your class on time?" Also, why do all the teachers carry around their stuff in carts? Like the student don't crowd the hall enough . . .

A common sight at Amherst Regional High School: Students are often thinking . . . four minutes to get where?!

Louis Betances takes it in stride as he hikes to B-1 and B-2.

Everyone likes to hang out in the new school after a good meal.

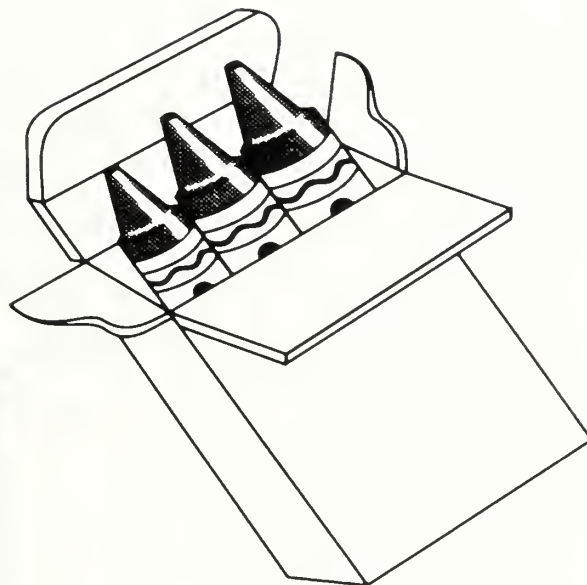

Shawn Williams is caught working hard.

Angel Burgos listens intently.

Fletcher Korfhage-Poret is caught hardly working.

Jamie Howes and Amy Kwan pause from their studying to smile for the camera.

Electives Options

Child Study poses on their field trip to the Fire Station.

The only high school pool is in Child Study.

Chris Peterman and Daisy Perkins are creating treasures in the new ceramics room.

Nate Mosher is using the router in his Woodworking Technology class.

Chris Pocsik is stirring up another concoction in Foods class.

Newspaper ads in Communication Technology class are challenging.

Francisco Cruz is testing an electric circuit in Electronics.

Senior Tom Rainford can be found chilling in his '73 VW Thing.

Friends celebrate Carmen and Kim's birthday with good eating and music.

Seniors Serey Nop and Emmanuel Harris are all smiles after being informed by Mr. Kelly (the school meteorologist!) that there will be no school the next day.

Sophomore James Sanchez tests the new banisters on his way to class.

Seniors Larissa Chernock, Jessica Bulman, Emily Zimmer and Sara Shandler, prepare for a night on the town.

Isaac Palatt, Chris Will, Pete Hogan, Jamey Kline and Brendan Greeley practice to be next year's upperclassmen.

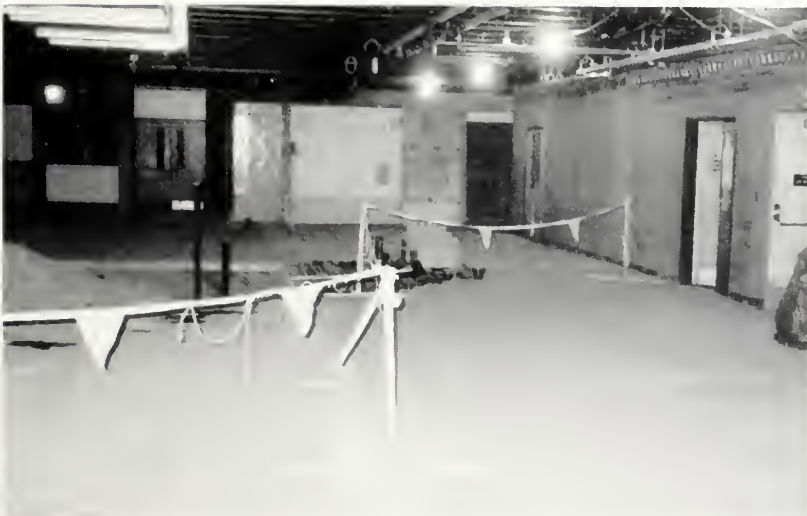

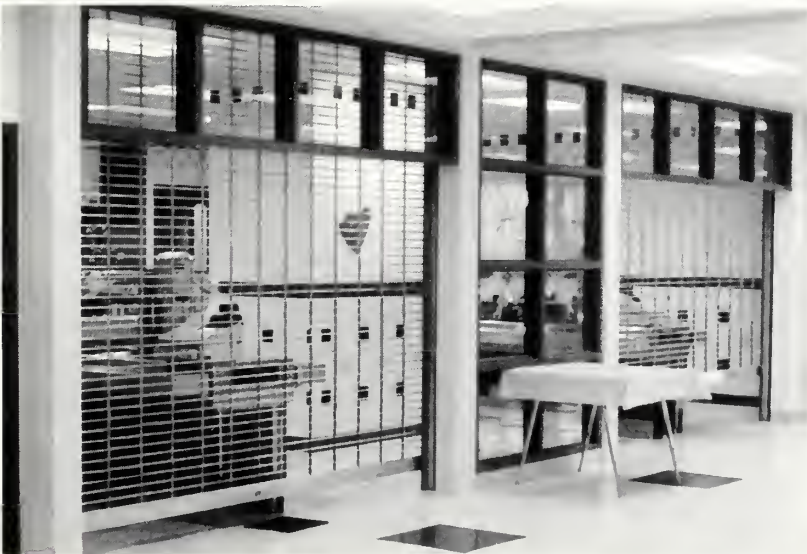

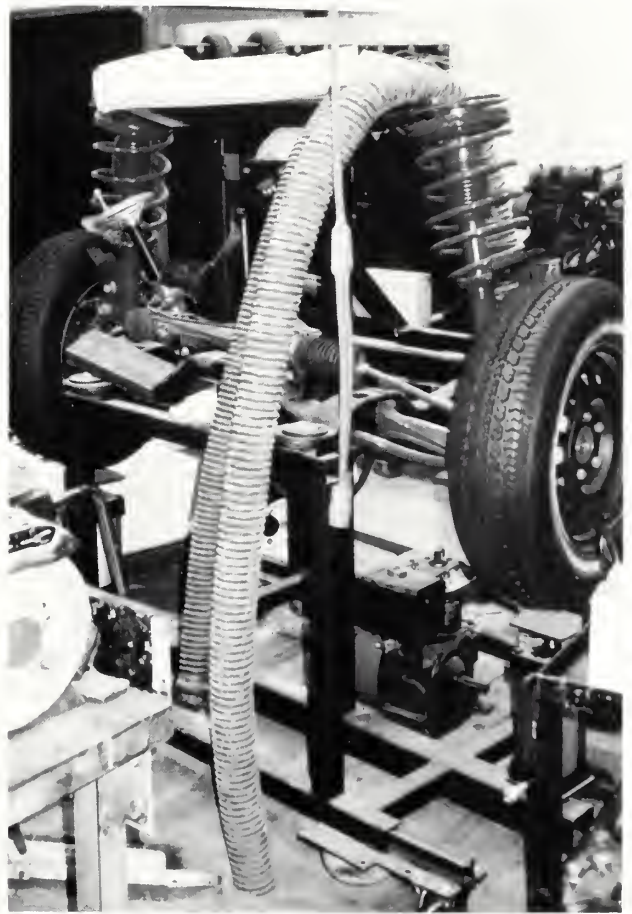

Juniors Diana Lemly and Katharine Pastides stop to buy les fruits et les légumes in Avignon, France.

Just as he puts the finishing touches on his physics lab, Greg Ross forgets how to spell his name.

Midway through the year, we finally find out where Michaela Morzuch has been hiding all along.

"Chubby bunnies" Ingrid Frau, Adina Lemeshow, Geoff Kravitz, and Elias Kassis stuff their cheeks full of marshmallows.

Shoshana Holzberg-Pill begins the burdensome climb to the third floor.

Raise the "Rufe"!

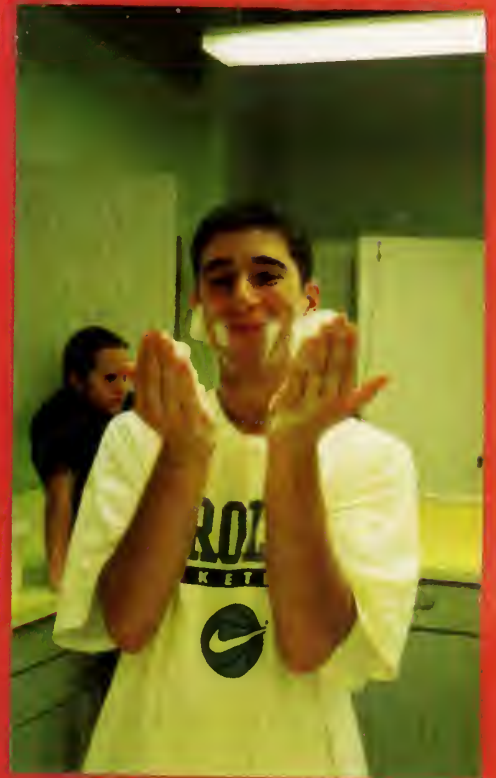

When least expected, Kito Sharpe gives Ulrich Fladl a friendly pinch in the rear.

Greg Vouros always finds time to shave at school.

vin Peelle attempts to use the force to extract Mammi-ama Ofori's brain from her head.

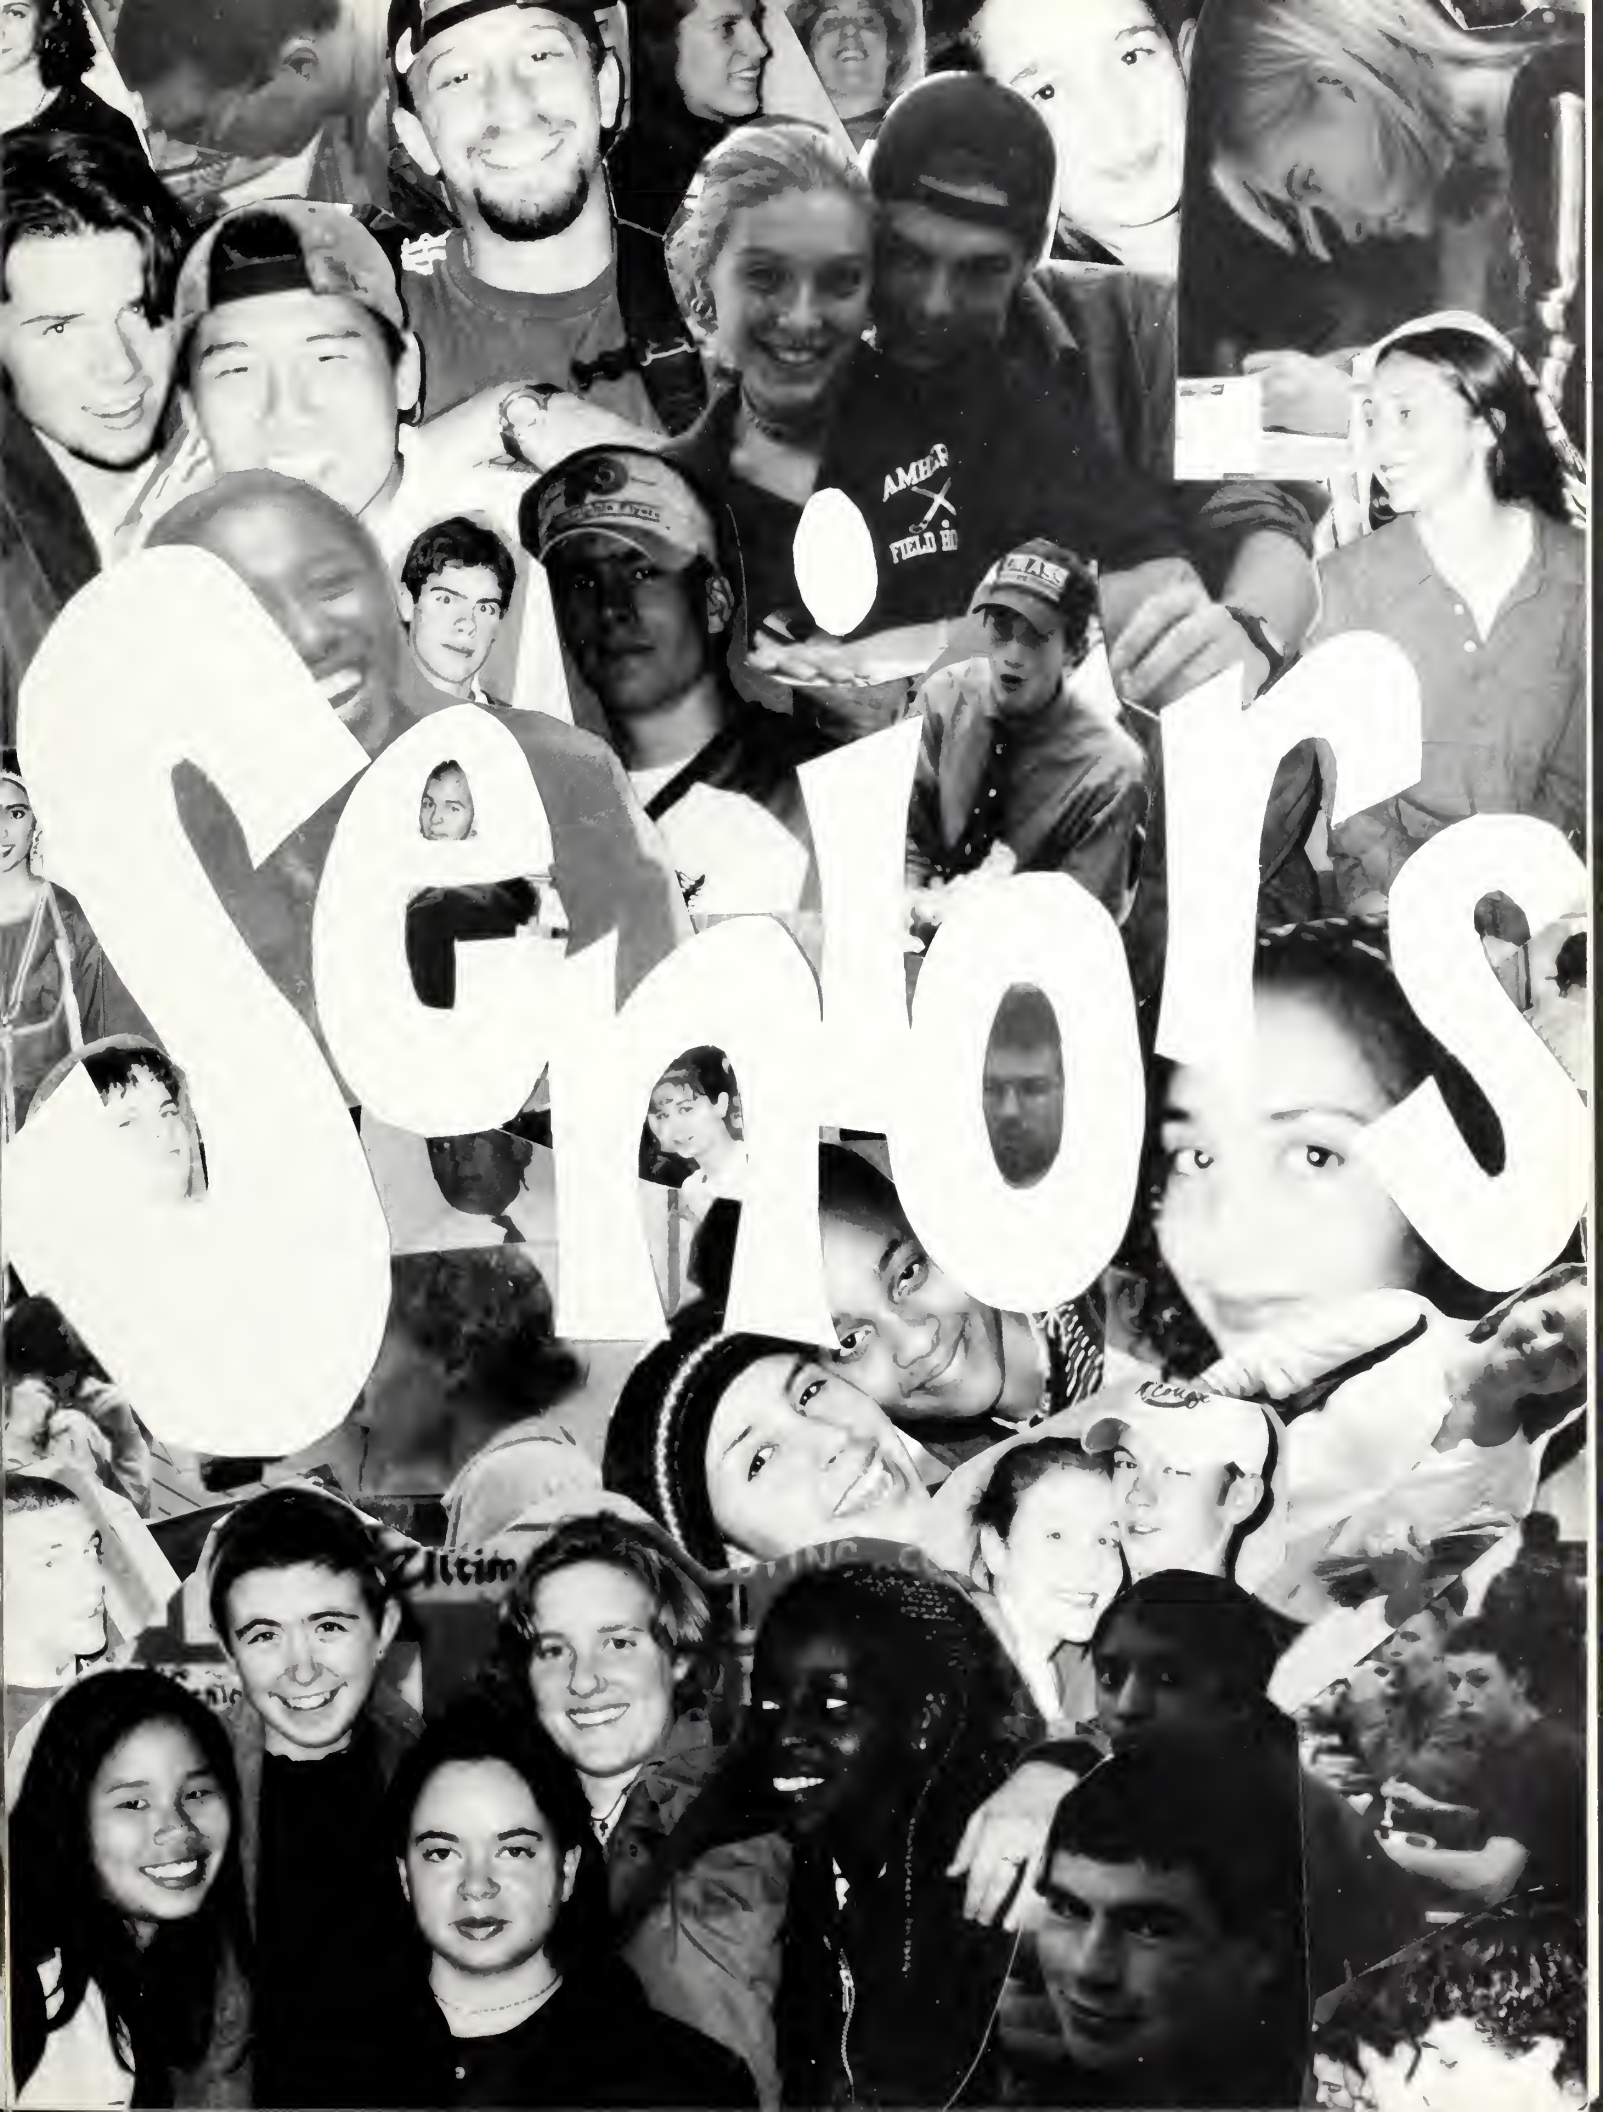

"Can we go in yet?" Russ Atteridge and Kai Depalma stand in the rain during a fire drill.

Soniya Barde admires her hunk of cheese at the bowling alley.

Nora Grais-Clements and Kate Martel lean on each other for support.

Luke Carey shows off his new shades to the camera.

Julie McNiven relaxes on the way home from last year's Chorale tour.

"Aren't I beautiful?"
Davin Peelle models his evening attire for a concert at Carnegie Hall on the '95 orchestra trip to NYC.

Tim Crosby watches an Ultimate Intramural game from the sidelines.

Kate Gagnon and Nina Frant spend some time together outside of school just relaxing.

Class of 1998

"Freedom is coming." Yep, that's what is playing in our heads as we reach the final stretch of our high school careers. We are ready to let go of the hands that have always protected us and to emerge as intelligent, confident, successful and mature individuals in a world waiting for us to make our mark.

Before we leave ARHS forever, we have to leave an impression that generations will remember for years and years to come. That is why we are going to be the first class in 25 years to go on a class trip and also be the first class to be exempt from taking finals. Since we are the last class to leave the older high school and its traditions; we have decided to make new traditions. Even though we are undoubtedly happy and excited to leave, we will never forget ARHS. There will never be another class like this one - so never forget us.

- Chi Chi Ezech '98

The 1998 Goldbug is dedicated to Peter Gulliver

It's hard to describe in words what to say about Peter. And it's even harder to say how we feel. Peter was the epitome of life, and still is. His struggle is our struggle, just like his smile and laugh was once ours, too. Peter will live forever in our hearts and minds, and we thank him for all the memories that he has given us over the years. We will stand by him and his family with the love he once gave us, now and forever.

Future Business Leaders of America

Future Business Leaders of America is an organization that emphasizes leadership in the business world. FBLA learns how to manage small businesses as well as the intricacies of the stock market. Stocks were bought in Intel, Microsoft, CVS, and other major corporations. During the fall, FBLA went to Auburn, MA, to a leadership conference where members received their charter membership to the National chapter. This year FBLA has had a great start. With advisor Ms. Pinn, FBLA has progressed immensely, considering the temporary loss of the school store. Even though FBLA cannot sell candy or cookies during school anymore, with a booming success, FBLA has been selling Antonio's pizza after school two times a week. FBLA will save their profits for a trip to New York City in the spring, and for a spring National Leadership conference in Virginia. A portion of the profits will also go to a charity organization.

Debate Team

Debate Team members: Brian Calabrese, Molly Waring, Peter Brown, Alex Calhoun, Annie Baker, Diana Lemly, Kerry Wilbur, Tristan Zajonc, Nick Lange, Dave Burgess, Mrs. Bear-Leighton

Are You Debate Worthy Test:
Read this as fast as you can with a pen in your mouth in under 1 second.

The Debate team picked up where we left off as we went on to win not only the nationals but to give the varsity squad sweep all 16 qualifying spots for the TOCs. Annie Baker and Diana Lemly discovered the true meaning of "moralistic orgies" as they journeyed into the mystifyingly ethical world of Lincoln-Douglas debate. Tristan Zajonc and Nick Lange dominated the varsity policy squad as the only members. They became fascinating with twinkling starlight, contemplated ecofemism, objectivism, normativity and Heidegger, asked "lame ducks" to "lion tamers" and "environmental trophies" to global nuclear holocaust (Do you see why Tim Crosby ran away?). Everywhere they went either a radioactive wasteland (negative) or a space-faring utopia (affirmative) as set in their wake. Fear the ZLANOC!

The new policy members also blew away the competition under the superior leadership of Mrs. Bear-Leighton and Amherst College super-debater/Lexington traitor Matt Nichols. With accomplishments that would make last year's legendary heroes, Anna Coldham, Ethan Hazard-Watkins and Tova Neuget proud, they dazzled everyone with their extending, cross applying grouping skills. Taking control of Lexington, Harvard, Georgetown Day, States, Districts, and many more national tournaments, we struck fear and admiration into all who faced our wrath. Doubtlessly they will continue to outdo their predecessors as Amherst debate continues its super-luminal ascent into stardom. The future is golden. P.S. On Alex's request: Although Alex Calhoun has debated for only one season, we all bow down to his awe inspiring persuasive eloquence.

Cabaret

Once again Cabaret was a huge success. This variety show has become more and more popular as the years pass, contributing to its sold out shows. Cabaret offers a wonderful, amusing, entertaining, and enjoyable evening for anyone wanting to stay inside during the cold month of January.

This year the Cabaret was hosted by Josh Douglas and Nikki Fonsh who held the responsibility of cleverly introducing each act. The emcees' big topics of the evening included, school lunch, the new building and administration, and the large array of coffee shops up town.

The songs and skits performed in this year's Cabaret ranged from the romantic with Phantom of the Opera's All I Ask of You, sung by Brendan Greeley, and Alison Smolin, to the frightening with Andrew Mackintosh as the Dentist from Little Shop of Horrors, to the feverish with Peggy Lee's Fever with Courtenay Ross, Kai Depalma, and Ron eleg on guitar. And as always the seniors took the stage for the last song, this year singing The Lion Sleeps Tonight, complete with animal noises, sending the audience home with another charming Cabaret to remember.

The "Spice Boys" (a.k.a. Josh Zacharias, Josh Douglas, Daniel Clason-Hook, Raffi Kushick (hidden) and Elijah Miller) impress the audience with their sexy voices and snazzy suits.

"The Five Merry Murderesses" frighten the audience with their psychotic tales of murder.

After wildly singing "The Lion Sleeps Tonight," the seniors (on stage) convene with the rest of the cast in the well known cabaret tune.

Emil Cunningham and Meghaan Blauvelt perform in "The Death of Trotsky."

Voices

This year proved to be yet another successful one for the choruses at ARHS. A major change for this year was the move of the Ninth grade chorus to the High School (finally) and a change in name which reflects that addition of the 10th and 11th grades to that ensemble.

The Chorus and the Concert Choir each performed three major concerts throughout the year, while the Chorale performed four. For the first time the Concert Choir performed in February with the All Town Select Elementary School performance. In addition to these concerts, both the Concert Choir and Chorale performed at various places and events including the Martin Luther King Celebration, the annual Lasagna Dinner, at UMass and they sang many national anthems at sporting events.

All three choruses were fortunate to have full time student accompanists who devoted their time to playing with the choruses during both rehearsals and concerts. Lawrence Jones, also a member of the Chorale, accompanied the Chorus, Dong Hwa Lee was part of, and played for the Concert Choir and Josh Berman was the accompanist for the Chorale. This is the first time all of the choruses have had an accompanist in the time Jessel Murray has been conducting here.

While the Chorale took a day trip to Boston, the tradition of touring was continued this year by the Concert Choir. In the spring, the Concert Choir traveled to New York with the Philharmonic and the Symphony Band to perform and to have fun.

This year the choral program went through changes along with the rest of the school. Throughout these changes the choruses, under the fine direction of Jessel Murray, have grown and developed into a group of successful and talented musicians.

We played through the freezing cold mornings in the band room, and the even colder nights with the Pep Band at the football games. But the ARHS bands could always heat up the room. We lived through Mr. Purcell's funny jokes and amusing anecdotes. He reminded us that "this piece is Spanish, not Rushin," and after he told us "I'm going to start 'Without You,'" we wondered how this was possible. But overall, he helped all of the bands come together to have a very productive year.

"Dougie P" was the man with a plan for the Wind Ensemble this year. From the first day of school, he warned us that Wind Ensemble would be a little demanding, but extremely rewarding. He was right. We put on some excellent concerts this year — The Buckley concert was especially good. While it seemed that half of the band was injured for one reason or another for our first concert, we still played beautifully. We never knew music could be so dangerous. We'll miss our years with Mr. Purcell, but we'll remember how devoted he was: the trips, the concerts, and the rehearsals alike.

Symphony Band was a blast this year. The percussion section was explosive, the brass section was loud, and the flutes played magnificently. It all combined for a wonderful sound. We came together to sell fruit, and this helped pay for an excellent trip. We now move on, grateful for the knowledge Mr. Purcell has given us.

For the first time in a while, the Jazz Workshop had three separate groups. The Beginning Group was extremely talented, and they learned quickly. The other two groups continued to develop their skills throughout the year — when they weren't feuding over "Well You Needn't." The concerts, in and out of school, went well. The Advanced Group had an interesting time playing at the Gospel Concert, while the Martin Luther King Jr. Breakfast was especially fun. We end the year still trying to find the end of the tunnel.

It was a year of fun for all three groups. For the seniors, it is sad to leave Mr. Purcell and the good times we've had. We've laughed, cried . . . and played our instruments with him. We will never forget the man, or the music he brought us. For those of us who will return, we know that band will continue to be rewarding. And for all of us, the music, and the memories will always live on.

The high school orchestral program continued its long-standing tradition of beautiful music making and quality musicianship this year, which produced four students who were recommended for the National Honors Orchestra. The Philharmonia and the Symphonic Orchestra performed four concerts, each well-rounded and superb, and added a bit of chamber music in-between also.

The Symphonic Orchestra departed from standard high school repertoire, adding a large dose of Latin flavoring, with a dash of jazz. The pieces included the upbeat Sweet Land of Liberty by Vermont composer Gwyneth Walker, the hauntingly beautiful Bachianas Brasileiras by Heitor Villa-Lobos, and the jazzy Blues for Oaktown by D. Anger. But what good is jazz without the basics? The Philharmonia delighted the ears of the audience with Entrance of the Queen of Sheba by George Fredric Handel and the holiday favorite Waltz from the Nutcracker Suite by Tchaikovsky. The year of hard work "crescendod" to the magnificent final concert with the choruses, which, due to popular demand, was performed at John M. Greene instead of Buckley Hall.

Sixteen seniors leave at the end of this year with fond memories and high hopes for the fellow musicians they leave behind. They give them this advice, "Don't worry about the Longmeadow Exchange Concert because we'll always be the best, and bring your umbrellas to rehearsal because the weatherman predicts light spit showers with a bit of rumbling thunder that sounds as if it's saying something about a 'constipated' sound."

"That is very interesting." — TBC This is the perfect quote to describe our yearbook meetings. With Josten's flirts, too short skirts, TBC quotes, Antonio's pizza, gingersnaps, and Diet Coke (ewwwwwww), we had a blast! Jenn, Anica, Chi-Chi, and Val gave the Boys Varsity Soccer Team story a new twist and that's not all the improvising we've done this year. "Am I frusing?" asks a confused Susannah, A.K.A. Susafrus.

For some reason Val thinks that raising some hell is inappropriate. However, she claims it's all right to say, "Go to hell!" because "at least you're going to a place," retorts Val. One knows that they've spent too much time at school when you're on a first name basis with the janitors. They put up with our messy room night after night, Thanks.

Long hours at school, 7:30am-9:30pm, gave us much time to bond, vent our anger, and have loads of laughs. Especially when Susafrus decided to come up with a new beat to the song "Sonny came home." For some reason she thought it was a country song?!? Oh and we can't forget the posse who came on Thursdays to eat Jenn's Mr. Goodbar. "By the way they still owe me five dollars:)"

Much thanks to Mr. G. We couldn't have done it without you, with all your computer know-how. Anica and Mr. G. were the people you would go to if you wanted to lose something or you could go to Chi-Chi who doesn't like to bring things back to school. Steph got a chance to feel like Bill Gates, but not really. She spend most of the time playing with the money. Too bad she had to get a real job!

With Jenn's awesome mix of songs we even managed to blow out some speakers, causing us to blast MTV. We ended our long nights with dances on the table tops to, "Everyone needs a bosom for a pillow, everyone needs a bosom," "45." But not to forget the classic hide and go seek games in the dark and the sugar filled cups of coffee to keep us going.

Good luck to Mr. G. and all his ailments, Stay Healthy! Don't burn your eyes out while in hell proofreading the field hockey pages Val. Oh, by the way Mr. G. still hasn't fixed his car from the accident that, uhem, Val was responsible for. Good luck next year!!!!!!:)

Syntax

ARHS's literary magazine, Syntax, published two editions of poetry/prose last year and hopes to repeat that accomplishment for 1997-98. It will be difficult with the absence of Ms. Purdy who is undergoing hip surgery at the time this is being written, but with the support of Mr. Minks, Mr. Gralinski and Ms. Brick, hopefully things will run smoothly. The Syntax staff appreciates the school community's growing enthusiasm for the publication and encourages all students to submit their work.

Graphic

 vide a forum for student-voice during the 1997-1998 school year.
 Week after week students could find the latest school news in the weekly edition of The Graphic. The quarterly edition provided in depth features and commentary from a wide array of students at ARHS. The spring edition contained the annual Images Contest, a highlighting of the school's best writers, poets, and photographers. The dedicated staff of The Graphic consistently turned out one of the area's most decorated high school newspapers despite the trials and tribulations of the double-edged sword that is the new computer network. The Graphic looks forward to another year in 1998-1998 of printing "All the News That Fits."

Stefanie Magner, Matt Cutler, Jake Monte, and Ryan Muldoon get ready to start a Graphic meeting.

P.O.C.U.

In keeping with tradition at ARHS, students, with the help of supportive teachers, continue to pursue a wide variety of cultural activities that enrich, deepen and increase the awareness of each other and the world around us. People of Color United (POCU) is one of the clubs which offers students the opportunity and tools to reach and achieve those goals. With the physical and academic transitions in school this year, the POCU activity calendar has been filled with many academically and socially productive events. The Kwanzaa celebration, for example, was a community and school event which offered a wide variety of traditional African cuisine, ceremonial lighting of candles and local and international live entertainment. Members also assisted at the Martin Luther King breakfast where POCU members received the prestigious Martin Luther King Scholarships. Working in conjunction with numerous clubs such as the International Club, FBLA, and others, POCU has been involved in fundraising projects and community service. One thing is for sure; a lot more is still to come.

This year the Outing Club was infused with incredible energy and ingenuity. The OC began this year with a number of goals: to have at least one trip every weekend, to interest new members, to get a Web page going, to avoid mountain laurel, to reorganize the OC box, to use as much duct tape as possible, to eat things with lots of flavor (sinkies, floaties, swimmies, flutteries, crawlies, splaties, smooshies, slimies), and to successfully complete this yearbook entry. We accomplished all of these goals except the last (and maybe the first). We led a variety of trips, ranging from dinky day hikes to lengthy night hikes, from salaaming down rushing rivers in tubes or rafts to exploring the depths of dark caverns, from cold winter camping to orienteering in the pouring rain. The group of gung-ho Core Committee members welcomed the new arrivals to the OC family, introducing them to the wonders of number ten cans, birch bark, frozen feet, and, of course, Lake George. Lake George itself was wonderful this year, including as much sun, rain, wind, calm weather, ice cream, pranks, GORP, and epic stories as possible. We also retrieved Nick Lange's Leatherman. This year we saw the arrival of the first and hopefully annual Water day, which included kayaking, swimming, canoeing, tubing and sailing.

A year of firsts, 1997-98 was perhaps the most active Outing Club year in recent (3 days) memory. As the seniors venture forth to carry the OC tradition across the country, we are confident that the Outing Club will remain strong with the leadership of its younger members.

Leadership Training

Agie Morgan, Meghan Greeley, Dan Ratner, Alex Calhoun, Ethan Drucker, Kira O'Neil Bona, Tim Cosby, Diana Lemly, Charlie Camp (advisor), Matt Shamey.

Charlie: How does everyone feel? Let's go around the circle. Does anyone want to start? Yeah, go ahead . . .

The Leadership Training Program brings together many different parts to make a whole. Fuzzies and gung-ho types contribute to the group. Outdoor activities complement the indoor analysis. The theories with three-letter acronyms apply to the hand-on learning. There are ropes to tie and cookies to be eaten.

Through diversity and through unity we learned how to function in a group and how to act each individually. That is the ultimate meaning of leadership.

Charlie: I think a lot of profound things have been said here. I encourage you to think about them. Testing for closure . . .

Club

If there was a theme to our club this year, this was it: take students from about twenty different countries, give them a place where they can really hang out and be friends, and the results will be awesome. Our club is truly an International Club, and it's also truly an American one. We have members from various places, such as the Philippines, Senegal, Columbia, Russia, Korea, Japan, China, Taiwan, Bosnia, Africa and America.

Latinos Unidos

Latinos Unidos is a group created by the Latino/Hispanic student body of the High School. Members come from various countries, such as Puerto Rico, Columbia, Portugal and the Dominican Republic. We find fun ways to fund raise, publicize and get involved in our community. Some of our activities this year included the Puerto Rican Potluck, bake sales, parties and volunteering at Wildwood and the Amherst Nursing Home.

As the seniors leave, we want Latinos Unidos to keep up the legacy that has been started. We want the development of the group to expand as the years go on.

Cambodian Club

In the Cambodian Club, we meet once a week, sit down in a circle and talk to each other about what is going on in the Amherst community, and in the Cambodian community. We try to solve the problems by coming together and talking about them. We also find ways to raise money for our club so that we can do activities that are fun. We have fundraisers such as parties and bake sales. We also hold a celebration for the Cambodian New Year.

Chinese Club

The Chinese Club is not just for Chinese students, it is for non-Chinese students as well. In the past years, Chinese Club students have done lots of things, such as the Chinese fair, where we sell all kinds of traditional Chinese toys, earrings, etc. We also participate in the cake sale and hold bake sales after school. We had a Chinese New Year celebration; this performance was well received by the school and the public. During our Chinese Club meetings we prepared for those activities and we also played Chinese games for fun.

Chess Club

This year the chess team is comprised of new and returning members including Brian Calabrese (Captain), Adi Ganz, Jonathan Lawall, Cindy Matthews, Brian Seeve, and Kate Jensen. Last year the chess team placed first in Western Mass and third in the state. Mrs. Matthews is the new advisor for the chess team and we hope that this year will be as successful as last year.

In an informal practice, members of the chess club perfect their strategies.

EAC

The Environmental Action Club was born in 1994. It was founded with the idea that it wouldn't be run in the typical hierarchy of president and members. All members in the club have the same voice. Anyone can come up with ideas that they want the club to do. The club has gone to numerous environmental conferences across the state. At some of these conferences, club members have given workshops to teachers and students to show them how to set up a recycling program in their schools. Last year some of the members were part of a group of volunteers who tested for radon in some Amherst, Pelham, Shutesbury, and Leverett homes. The members feel that it is our responsibility to help and to educate others in the community about our local environmental issues.

NHS

On November 17, 1997, past members of NHS, parents, teachers and soon-to-be-members of NHS gathered for the induction ceremony in the High School cafeteria. President Geoffrey Kravitz clearly laid out the goals of the Robert Frost Chapter of NHS: to be an asset to the school and town communities through volunteer work. Members must be juniors or seniors and they donate their free time to fulfill the twenty hour volunteer requirement. Positive results are visible from their volunteering. Members tutor, volunteer at soup kitchens, animal shelters and nursing homes, and efforts are put into other community service projects as well.

Sister City

Sister City is an official town committee whose purpose is to have fund raisers to send materials such as clothes, medical supplies, toys, bicycles, and computers to aid one of our Sister Cities, La Paz Centro, in Nicaragua. Twice a year the supplies are shipped over and in return, the committee receives thank you letters and photographs of smiling children with their new toys. A high school group, affiliated with the town committee, meets to discuss and plan future fund raisers and ways of creating an awareness in the town. This committee always welcomes new members.

Amnesty International

This year was an active one for the ARHS chapter of Amnesty International, a world-wide human rights organization. We undertook a campaign promoting the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, which will celebrate its 50th anniversary on December 10, 1998. Throughout the year we generated over 2000 letters and petitions on behalf of prisoners of conscience, many of whom were released. Some of the year's highlights included attending the Northeast Regional Conference in Boston despite the snowstorm, freezing during the candlelight vigil, and, of course, the never-ending stream of bad jokes while writing Urgent Actions.

Student Government

The basic role of a Student Government is to meet the basic needs of the students: to obtain the opinions of the student body and to relay that information to the administration. Thus, the collective voice of the students becomes a powerful vehicle for change. The activities of the ARHS Government were based on this highly democratic ideal.

The Student Government worked hard in 1997-1998 not only to advance student causes, but also to delineate and codify the methods of achieving increased student awareness in ARHS. After its initial goals were set, the Student Government arranged meetings with the administration and faculty concerning the issues of scheduling and open lunch. Having collected information on these topics, designated committees administered surveys to the student body, in order to better understand and represent student opinions. In its first year in existence, the Student Government accomplished many of its goals and established a firm base on which the student body can rely for years to come.

SADD

Students Against Drunk Driving (SADD) is an organization which serves to remind students of the dangers involved with drinking and driving. This year has brought many new members, new ideas, and new challenges. We hope to promote our message by our bulletin boards, morning announcements, and school assemblies. All of this is possible because of the hard work of the members and Ms. Staiti, our advisor. We hope to reach the students and inform them of alternatives to drinking and driving, both for the present and in the future. Designate yourself to make a difference and please don't drink and drive.

Students United by Diverse Sexualities is a group committed to providing support for students of all sexual orientations and to speaking out against homophobia within our school community. This year, SUDS has swelled to a group of nearly fifty students who meet once a week to discuss issues, listen to visitors, watch movies and share personal experiences. Members take turns designing the bulletin board which sported pictures portraying positive images of same-sex couples earlier this year. SUDS also expanded its library of books and magazines on gay, lesbian and bisexual issues. Whistling Club

I wish that I could express the joy I feel when I see people whistling, whether planned or spontaneous, whether solo or in a group. The Whistling Club exists to whistle and to raise whistling awareness, so others may feel this same joy. We were successful in raising awareness this year, having our cake sell for $100 at the cake sale. The dedication that Whistling Club members have shown this year fills my heart with pride. As Schools Match Wits Club members: Brian Seeve, Elliot Holland, Ariel Glassman, Dan Jacob (advisor), Sam Asher, and Katie Fox.

After an average showing last year, one win and a loss in the tournament, the As School Match Wits team returned no players, allowing for a new group of primary young minds. The start of the short season was slightly rough, as there was trouble selecting a team to field. It all was settled in time for the match, however. This year's team consisted of three sophomores, one junior and one senior.

At the tournament, Amherst lost, but not without putting up a challenge. The match was very close throughout the whole first half, but the more experienced opponents from Northfield-Mount Herman slowly pulled away to victory. Questions included "Got Milk?" "Who's ya Daddy?" and "How many licks does it take to get to the Tootsie Roll center of a Tootsie Roll Pop?"

The team should fare better in next year's competition, considering we will have four returning players who have experience with the match format.

ABC House

It is a situation right out of a sitcom. You have your plot, characters, time period, and you've got one special place — the A.B.C. House.

Living at the A.B.C. house is an experience like no other. Being an A.B.C. scholar at the house is a great adventure with its own twists and turns. Imagine the setting: several students who subdivide into seniors, juniors, and sophomores, their own house parents (with children), and finally a dog and a dove in a pear tree.

Here at the house we are a nuclear family. The guys are brothers to one another and our guardians fall upon us as our parents, thus we can maintain a bond between us all and have a home away from home.

It is hard to develop the concept of living away from home for three years once you have finished your junior high years. At home you leave your family, friends, neighborhood, but you bring yourself, a person with a straight, goal oriented spirit that is ready to form into something even greater. Sure, it is awkward at first, but time heals and changes all. You get to live in a new town, meet new people, go to a different school. It seems as if it is too much to handle at first, but everything gets balanced at its own rate.

This is where we metamorphize as a caterpillar does in order to become a butterfly. We don't change our identities, instead we carry our past personalities from back home and adjust them through learning and experience in order to reach the next level in our lives.

At the next level in our lives we get ready to attend college and then to maintain a professional career. Those of us who leave the program become alumni who have had a chance to leave a legacy behind so that the future scholars of the program can continue to excel with their potential and with the greatest stories ever told of past scholars.

Cake Auction

On the half day before Thanksgiving break, the Junior Class conducted the annual cake sale. Many of the school's clubs, teams and groups of friends tried to outdo each other as they created artistic and culinary masterpieces. Students and faculty groups then bid against each other for the biggest and best looking cakes. This year's top cake sold for $100! The most memorable cake was the cake for Peter Gulliver, who is in recovery as a result of an auto accident.

Cheerleading

This football season we started out with a new squad. At the first game we only had three cheerleaders! We did acquire three more, but we were an inexperienced team. Every practice was focused on learning new cheers and perfecting new motions. This year we were introduced to a new set of national cheerleading rules; we had to learn to abide by these rules, which was sometimes difficult to do. Although we were intermediate in our skill level at the beginning of the season, as the season progressed we challenged our intermediary skills and raised our skills to a higher level. It was a tough season for us as a team.

Fortunately, we had many supporters backing us and raising our confidence. We would like to thank our coaches Erika and Robyn for never giving up on us! Also, we would like to thank the Booster Club for our awesome pom poms and the football players and their parents for always cheering us on. By the end of the season we had learned to appreciate what we had. We had gone through so much together that we ended up forming long lasting friendships.

ULTIMATE

the Ultimate Cheer

One of the strongest ultimate traditions is the cheer for the opposing team at the end of the game. Its purpose is to demonstrate that camaraderie among players is more important than the final score (Right.) Colleges inevitably put together a cheer for us whose basic theme is either "Don't you wish you were as cool as us, you little high school punks?" or "Please come to our school." The cheer is not always easy for us to do because we usually can't think of anything beyond "The wind was swirling all around/you ran up the field and down." We also are hungry, tired and not in the mood to argue about lyrics. However, in the spring of 1997, we managed to put together a few good cheers, one of which follows below. (It sounds a lot better with Nuge on mouth percussion and Meyers on air bass) We performed this cheer after our pool play game against Bronx Science at the Amherst Invitational. And we were right. We did see them again, in the finals the next day.

Boys' Tennis

This past year was a success for boys' tennis. We made the Western Mass. finals, losing to the defending state champion, Minnechaug. This year, our team is looking to do just as well or ever better. We have returning seniors Joe Choi, Aaron Hamel and Josh Zacharius. We also We'll always remember: burying Alaine Knipes in the pole vault mat, Amber "Crusty Retina" Clarke wearing cake at the spaghetti dinner, the psycho bus driver from individuals, being "in the jungle, while the lion sleeps tonight," Liz (our second mother and former coach) rolling her eyes, Butterfield Hill, Kate and ChiChi's argument on "A whemba way vs. A whemba wet what," and dancing with our crazy assistant coach Trisha. With a 13-4 record, the girls' varsity soccer team played its way to a quarterfinal game in our first ever tournament appearance. Between 6:00 AM practices and daily 2 mile runs, our dedication and heart were at an all time high. Our success on the field was mirrored by our unity off the field.

Memories . . . "I dinky kicked it," Murphy & Fitz forever, Bhowmik's car, Chris's lost keys, Kate F's red card, Maayan's seductive dance, Alyssa's speed workouts, Holly's b-day present, Hot . . . Sava, USA vs El Salvador, bounce a quarter, Sarah plays defense?, the locker that wouldn't open and the window that wouldn't close and the psycho bus driver. SENIORS RULE! Girls rule! We wish the best of luck to a team that can only go higher. Thanks guys!

Girls' Cross Country

"Ooo! Ooo! This is my FAVORITE song!"

"Ugggh! Put the camera away!"

These are the words that can be heard over the shrieks and laughter on the bus to away meets. Once again, the ARHS X-country team has been a dominant force in the running community.

Despite doubts voiced by the confident Newton South coach and several thefts by the boys' team, the girls have overcome these great obstacles, and "eaten all the other teams for breakfast."

Contrary to Longmeadow's beliefs, we do not walk through glass or drink blood. We do, however, go for 13 mile practice runs, run through mud, rain, and snow, and subject ourselves to the horrifying sight of Mr. Keene's "tights."

Boys' Cross Country

It's funny how things work out sometimes. . . Starting the year with two losses in one meet is not the most pleasant way to begin the season, but as a motivator for the championship meets in November, it's tough to beat.

Even though we finished 10-2 in dual meets, with a worse record than '96, it was evident early on that this team was headed for big things. Amazingly, the team improved with every meet. If it was not Matt Shamey taking second at the Amherst Distance Festival, it was Taylor Washburn knocking a minute off his PR on the home course to help beat West Side. Every race someone different would step up their performance to help the team steamroll through the last 10 meets of the season without a loss.

At the Brown Invitational we finished third - only nine points out of first place (Shamey's first race back after a mysterious sickness). Going into PVIAC and WMass we were very optimistic about our chances to qualify for our second State meet in the three years of Coach Gould's tenure. Special congratulations go to Matt Ewing and Tony Musante, who have completed their three years on the team with outstanding leadership and character. The Chowderhead Award goes to Ian Henefield, and the Photy goes to Ewing.

Boys' Volleyball

The 1997 Hurricanes Volleyball squad compiled an 8-6 record, despite multiple absences due to foreign exchanges and band trips, and they were one of the top teams in their league. A heartbreaking loss to Western Mass. champs Holyoke in the first game of the tournament concluded the season. With all but one player returning, the 1998 squad looks to dominate the court and achieve championship status. Led by Brian Looze and Greg Ross, and with the addition of Doug Lee, Adam Silver, and "Duck Feet" Pete, the Canes were an all-around quality team. With their determination to win and the addition of valuable J. V. players, one can be secure in wagering a hefty sum on an undefeated season for the '98 canes.

Girls' Volleyball

The Hurricanes finished yet another amazing season. Ending with a final record of 14-9, we captured our third straight WMass Division I title. After losing five starting seniors to graduation last year, this "spike force" put it together to get it done. Consisting of just four veterans and eight rookies, the post-season tournament seemed a dream just out of reach. As the season rolled on, that dream became a true reality. After beating Putnam in the WMass quarter-finals, then Ludlow in the semi-finals, we went on to decisively destroy Central in the WMass finals!

Throughout the season, we've collected many unforgettable memories, taking with us these few (among many others): "Bullwinkle," "Brownie," "Cookie Dough"

V-ball sisters 4-ever, SETTERS RULE!

"Kaitlin, try not to trip over the lines while running backwards."

"Cherries" and "Squeeze your cheeks."

Field Hockey

With the loss of eight seniors, the team definitely had a season full of challenges ahead. The mix of veterans and new additions proved to be a difficult combination, but we stepped up to the test. After reading about the team's "inexperience" in the newspaper, we vowed to always work hard and fulfill our true potential. This mentality proved to be successful with a victorious first game against Athol, and our amazing win against team rival Northampton.

Each practice was a time for us to prepare both mentally and physically. From our warm up to our cool down we focused on field hockey, with as few digressions as possible. We learned to connect as a team, push ourselves to the limit, and play with grace. Practice was always a surprise with Kristen's new tactics to help us improve. New corner strategies, shooting challenges, and smashing pumpkins were just a few of those interesting innovations.

Although this team may not have been as successful as those in the past, we all know what it took to end with a winning season: Jenny taking over the captain's band, Mary J. Blige as our bus-ride music, and crazy dance parties to get us psyched. Maybe our determination, hard work, and team work on and off the field had something to do with it. The most important lesson we learned this season is that playing with heart can take us places.

We will always remember ... animal crackers, Atkins apples, Katie's stench, purple?, spank it, Anne playing the fiddle, "just give him one of these," Kristen always knowing our business, Ted the bus driver, great locker buddies, the passing game that didn't exist, 80's names: Cheryl, Crystal, Opal, etc., Kristen's wooden car, stickers, non-existent muscles, and of course the SMB's.

A special thanks to Kristen and Amy for putting up with our craziness.

Golf

You hit a ball off the ground into a hole, it's as simple as that. But there's more to golf than its simple objective. The thrill of crushing a ball the length of two and a half football fields and tracking it through the sky; sinking a forty foot putt that slides ten feet left to right; yelling "fore" as your ball flies into a crowd of people diving left and right to save their lives; watching your opponent hit $12.50 worth of golf balls into a water hazard; these are just a few of the many reasons why the other members of the ARHS golf team and I play this sport. We didn't have a very successful season this year, but the team has future potential.

The experiences and memories gained from being a member of the golf team for six years are infinite. Who can resist fierce one on one competition on a 150 acre piece of land and the meaningful, theme filled talks with the spirit of the golf team himself, Mr. Kneeland? His experience spans over three decades of coaching the Hurricanes, inspiring many to pick up the game of golf and teaching them how to use the sport to benefit their lives.

It's true that golf isn't one of your more high endurance sports, but that doesn't mean that it can't be fun and challenging. "Golf has humbled, humiliated, and just about licked all the great athletes I ever knew that tried it." — (Red Blaik). Maybe that's why so many people enjoy golf.

Gymnastics

A perfect smile can accrue a perfect score from the judges.

The Varsity Gymnastics team started their season this year two weeks late, and with only two girls. As the first and second weeks rolled by, the team had six gymnasts, and then eventually eight.

Although the team's record wasn't as high as those in the past, the '97 season for the Hurricane gymnasts won first place in spirit. These eight dynamic gymnasts were led by senior Co-captains Shachar Gillat and Amber Reed, both of whom compete all-around for the Hurricanes. The rest of the team consisted of: senior Amber Clarke (beam, floor, vault), freshman Dillon Kline (beam, vault), and 8th graders Jen Djaferis (all-around), Tiffany Falkenbach (bars, floor, vault), Tatyana Tenenbaum (all-around), and Emma Simmons (beam, vault).

The team attributes much of their success and improvement to the coaches, Denise Bernash and Erica Perkins. The coaches focused on bringing the team together not only with skills, but with their minds. By the end of the season, every gymnast's score got higher and higher. As a result, the team sent two qualifying gymnasts to compete against the top competitors in the Western Mass. Championship Meet.

From money trains to monkeys, breathing, relaxing and smiling, pizza parties . . . a banquet at Fitzwilly's and injuries all over, this season was a victorious one in more ways than one. Emma . . . go open the doors, wait, what doors? Dillon and Jen . . . get on the bus and stop flirting with the boys? Tatyana . . . tomorrow, tomorrow, we'll love you tomorrow . . . ! Tiffany . . . nice layout! Monkey . . . nuff said! Shachar . . . your gymnastic skills were obviously better than your singing ones? And, Amber . . . come on Dominique, suck in your bubble butt!

"It's all you" (STG). The seniors wish the team the best next year, 'cause we know they will beat Agawam!

Football

The Amherst Hurricane Football team ended the season with a 4-7 record, finishing with three wins in their last four games. The record equalled the win total for the last two seasons combined. This year's team was comprised mainly of juniors and sophomores, since only seven seniors came out for the team (three were first time players).

With new coach Bill Manchester, the team has gained new unity, more confidence, and a family atmosphere. After a preseason trip to Camp Beehet, the commitment and ride were high.

The highlights of this season were led by the combined rushing attack of Sumner Hazard and Matt Natle. The two combined for over 2,000 yards rushing. Matt was also an All-League selection at both Linebacker and Running Back.

This season's captains Matt Natle, Bryan Looze, Jason Graziadei, and Josh Todrin have led a young and inexperienced team to a very positive season. This season is a turning point for the entire program. The future looks bright, and with the continued dedication of the players, this team will be competing for the league title in the very near future.

Hockey

Many times this winter the Orr rink had lots of loud and rowdy fans packed into the stands, cheering for the ARHS hockey team. Amherst's final record was 8-11-1, an improvement over last year. They had a season that ended sooner than it should have, but there were some great games, like their comeback win over Minnechaug.

Some of the things to remember about this season include: the pre-game song, Chris Looze's return, the penalty box, Poppy, rushing out of the locker room onto the ice, Senior Night, the half-time pep talks, Noah getting ejected and that GULLIVER IS LAW!!!

Wrestling

This season was highlighted by senior captain Kito Sharpe's trip to the Western finals. Kito, who was undefeated in Western Mass., lead the team in the absence of captain Josh Todrin, who was out due to a knee injury. Nkosi Sharpe, who placed fourth at Western Mass., earned his trip to State's through nothing less than (sometimes) sensational performances on the mat. Despite numbers and experience, Amherst won the majority of meets in head to head matches. Next year you can expect nothing less than a spectacular show and a great experience.

Kira O'Neil Bona shows good form.

Despite the lack of snow for the first few weeks of winter, both the Amherst Girls' and Boys' Varsity skiing had noteworthy seasons. The Amherst Girls' team had two second place finishes in A division and sent two skiers to the State Championships. The Boys' team fielded three State Championship competitors. And, both teams had many top thirty finishes. Seniors Kira O'Neil-Bona, Alex Calhoun, Nina Frant, Kate Gagnon, Geoff Kravitz, Bryan Looze, and Andy Rufe finished their high school ski racing with outstanding skiing and sexy outfits.

The Individuals were more successful than those in the past. Geoff Kravitz claimed the PVIAC individuals title with the second in GS and first in the slalom (spandex is the key!). Warm weather and unbounded enthusiasm allowed the team to end the season with a bang.

Swimming

We had a great season this year with a bunch of new swimmers helping to strengthen the team. Although we didn't walk away triumphant from all of our meets with only ten guys we did win many for a season of seven and seven. The earmuffs may not have worked out, but large batches of fudge certainly made up for it. O'D took the plunge when we threw him in, and we swimmers should each have a diving tub. Be proud of our performance at Western Mass. All those PR's mean we're faster than the girls in every event. We can't forget the dinners at the Maczkas where we honed our ping-pong skills while building camaraderie and eating spaghetti. Thanks for the great season.

The team, finishing 14-0, had one of the best dual meet records ever and completed their remarkable season with a second place finish in W. Mass to nationally-ranked Gardner. To whom do they owe these great successes (other than Mr. O'Donnell)? — Naked people with earmuffs, lane 5 envy (you know you got it), Darnell, Brad (yours or mine?), NumChuck, "I'm goin' crazy pulling out my eyelashes!," Uncle Glenn, Kelly's bus music, Daryl and Rebecca's National Anthem, Jake and Emma's head-bop, from brown to red, the amazing color-changing dessert, Ellen's pastry obsession (I want TOAST), the floating cap (that's so scary), Maria's identity crisis, Lane 6 and the flatulence problem, shower clogs, our amazing freshmen, the full monty K.S. style, Alaine, Emma and Rachael, "I don't know, is he?," IHOP and Dairy Queen trips, "I'll can't have you, I don't want nobody baby!" Thanks to our Herff Jones representative Claire Sygiel for allowing us lots of deadline flexibility.

We would also like to thank Celeste Lawler and Terry Ominsky for collecting pictures, order forms, ads, etc. for us.

A special thanks to Soniya Barde, Amy Kwan, Zach Gralinski and various students in Ms. Ivy's class for their help on collage pages.

A specialer thanks to Ken Comish for teaching us how to "Go to Hell" in style.

Finally, thanks to everyone who helped us out in any way.

"THAT'S NOT MY JOB"

This is a story about four people named Everybody, Somebody, Anybody and Nobody. There was an important job to be done and Everybody was sure that Somebody would do it. Anybody could have done it, but Nobody did it. Somebody got angry about that, because it was Everybody's job. Everybody thought Anybody could do it, but Nobody realized that Everybody wouldn't do it. It ended up that Everybody blamed Somebody when Nobody did what Anybody could have.

Colophon

The 1998 edition of the Amherst Regional High School Goldbug was printed in offset lithography by Herff Jones Inc. in Gettysburg PA in a limited edition of 500 copies with 216 pages.

The cover is a silkscreen Ultramarine stock with Rich Gold ink and Silver foil.

The endsheets are done in a mist Vibracolor stock with HJ 950 Black ink applied.

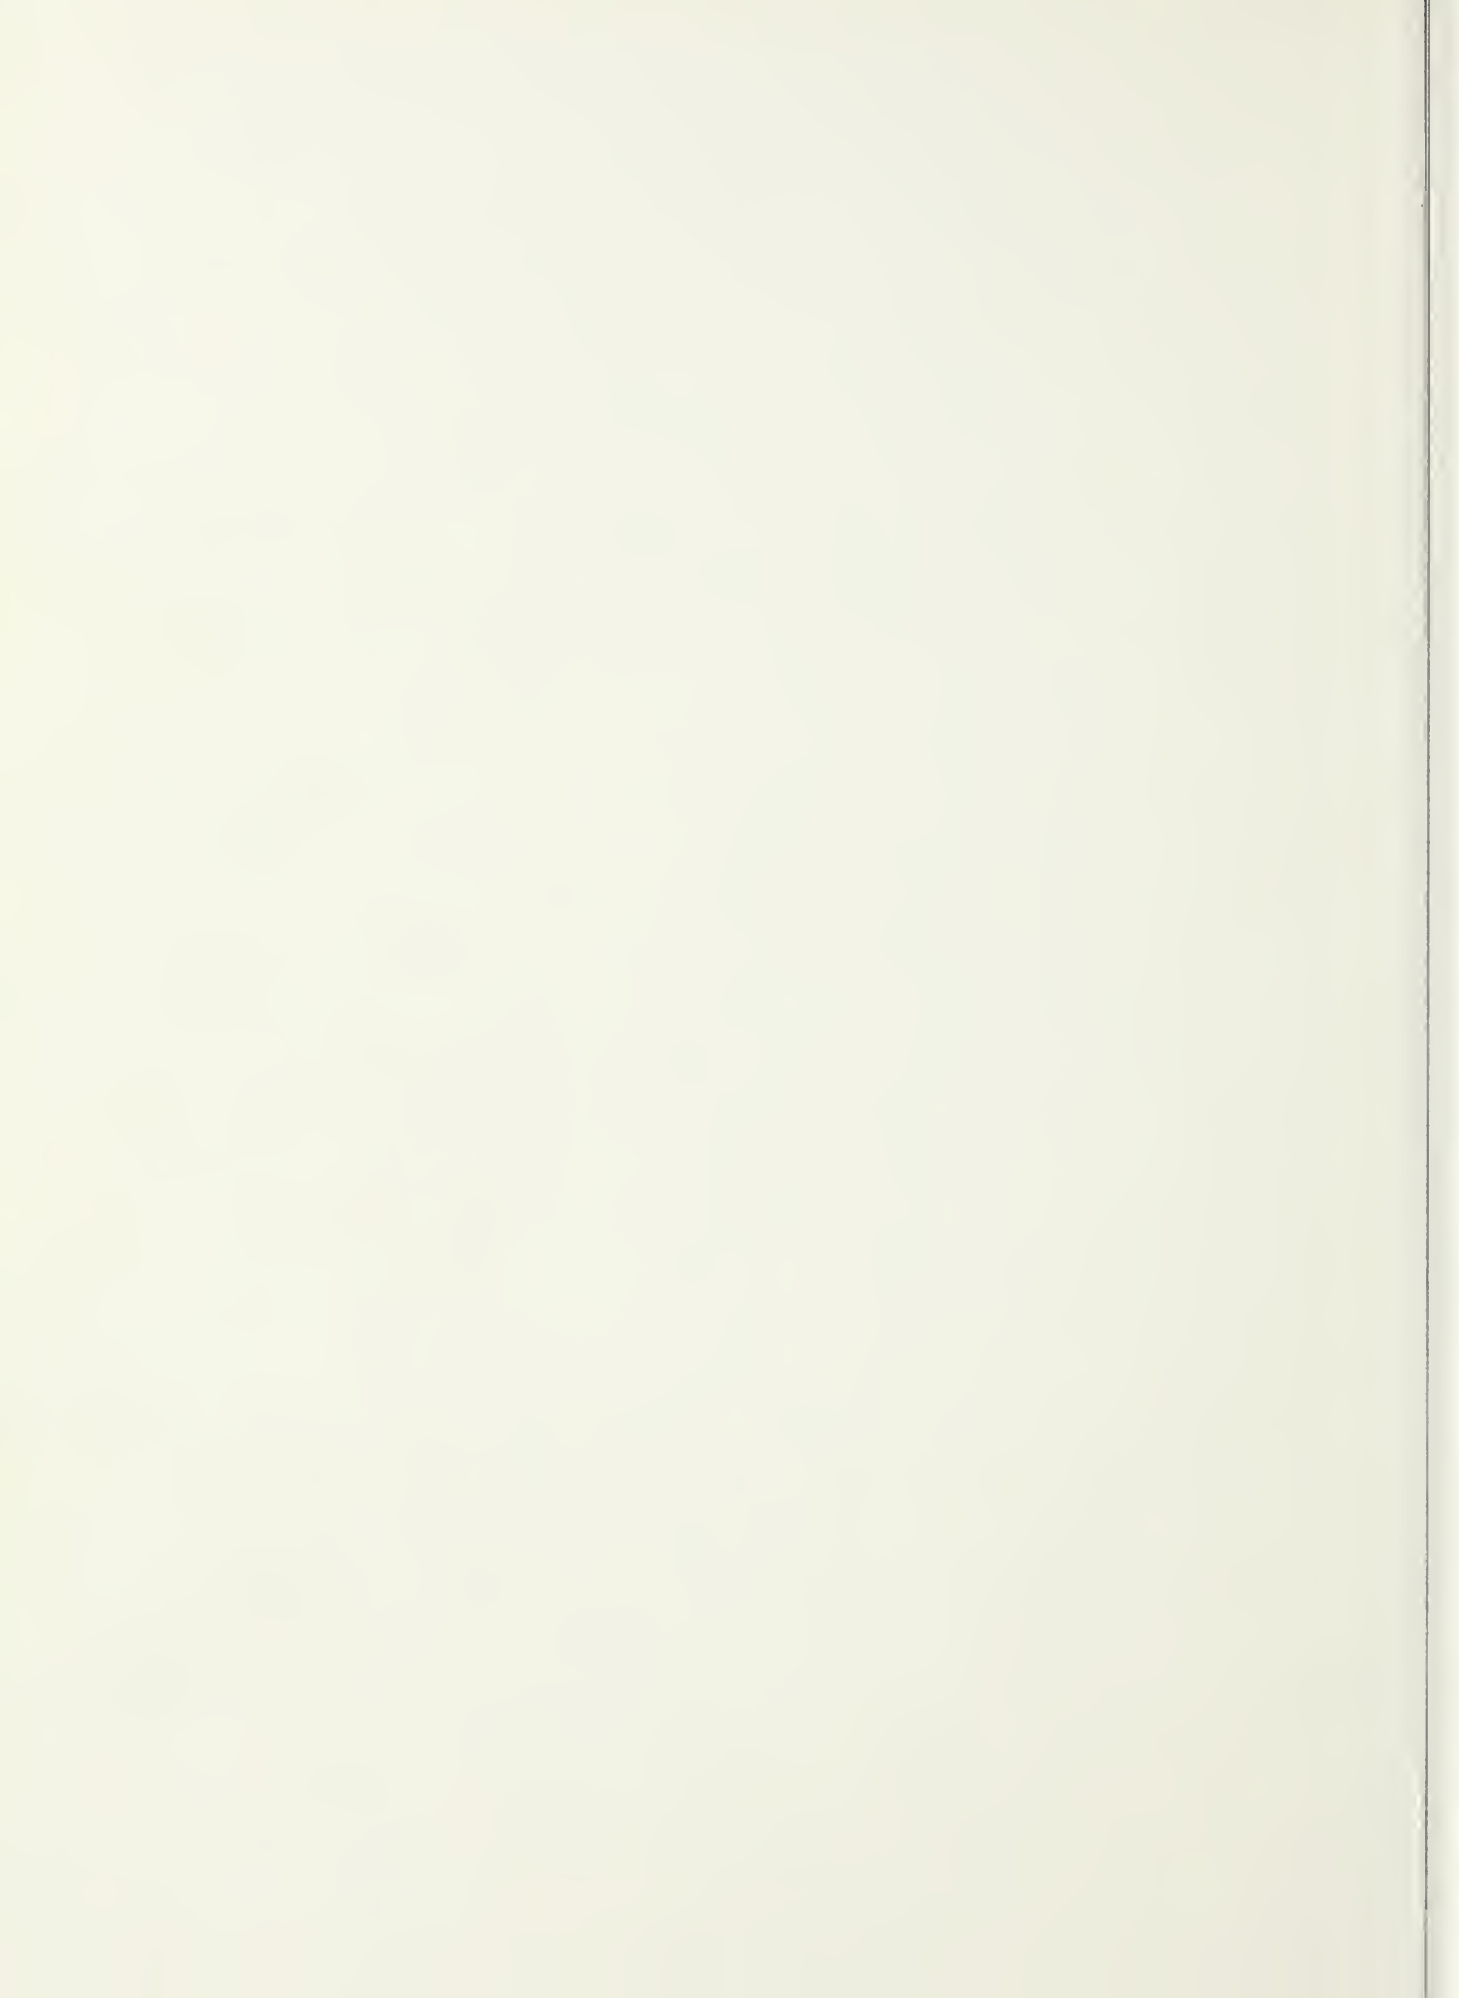

In addition to the black ink used throughout the book, there are two flats of four color. The headlines are done in 36 point Palatino and the body and captions are set in 10 point and 8 point Palatino.

For further information on the 1998 Goldbug, please contact the Yearbook Office at Amherst Regional High School, 21 Mattoon Street, Amherst MA 01002.
